

On November 7th Vote for Phillip W. Weiss for Mayor of New York City

New York City has a long list of vexing problems: skyrocketing rents, high cost of living, shortage of affordable housing, massive traffic congestion, high taxes, deteriorating infrastructure, just to mention a few. For many residents of this city, life in New York City is a grind.

In fact, in a Quinnipiac University Poll of New York City voters conducted in November 2016, 44 percent of the voters surveyed reported that the quality of life in New York City is getting worse. That's a lot of dissatisfied voters.

But nobody seems to care. The problems just continue to go on ... and on ... and on while the quality of life continues to get worse ... and worse ... and worse.

WE CAN DO BETTER THAN THIS!

AND WE WILL
