

Life

by Phillip W. Weiss

Let's not forget

What life's about

It's more than eating food.

And more than just a bunch of laughs

Though laughs are very good.

Life is action, plain and clear

A chance to do what's right

And show the world

What you can do

When guided by the Light.

The Light of course

Come from within

It's like a glowing lance

That we can use

But not abuse

If given the chance.

Library

by Phillip W. Weiss

Books do tell a story
About people from the past.
They give us lots to live for,
Strong feelings that do last.

Each book is an adventure
That makes us feel alive,
It stimulates our neurons
Like bees inside a hive.

But what is most important
Are those who man the stacks,
They give us fine directions
On where to look for facts.

They are the guards of knowledge
That books inside do store,
They help remove confusion
And point us to the door.

The door, that is, of knowledge
That's inside every book.

That beckons us to read it
And cause our minds to cook.

And as our minds are cooking by a flame that's great and bright,
The world becomes much clearer
As the light makes the darkness bright.
